HISTORIC MEAUX, 20 MILES EAST OF PARIS, OCCUPIED BY THE AMERICAN SOLDIERS; 65,000 PRISONERS TO DATE

Reach Point Where German Army Was Stopped in Drive on Paris in World War I—Believe Allies Have Crossed the Marne River

Supreme Headquarters, AEF

Aug. 28—History's third battle of the Marne opened today to the thunder of artillery and the rumble of tanks when American doughboys drove headlong across that river and captured the battered city of Meaux which held the eyes of the world in the anxious days of 1914.

It was at Meaux, 28 miles east-northeast of Paris, that the French stemmed the first German juggernaut in September, 1914, and it was near there that the Huns were defeated in the gruelling second battle of the Marne in July, 1918.

To-day, for the second time in 26 years, American doughboys were in possession of the city and the Germans on the run.

Supreme Headquarters, AEF

Aug. 28—(INS)—American doughboys have occupied the historic town of Meaux, 20 miles east of Paris on the northern bank of the Marne River, where the Germans were stopped in their drive on the French capital in World War I.

A spokesman at Allied Headquarters announced the liberation of Meaux shortly after the routine communique telling only of general advances all-along the front was issued.

The spokesman disclosed that Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr.'s Third Army has taken a total of 65,000 Nazi prisoner and killed 16,000 since it began its sensational operations in France.

There are no definite reports that the Marne itself has yet been crossed, but the spokesman declared that it was entirely possible. German forces in the Rouen sector, some 28 miles east of Le Havre, are being steadily compressed and there are indications that Rouen itself may be outflanked by American forces wheeling northward toward the rocket gun coast.

These forces, it is believed are engaged in a gigantic outflanking maneuver designed to sever communications between remnants of the German 15th Army and the Nazi homeland.

At the western end of the front, Allied forces have advanced another 1,000 yards toward the great port of Brest, in which the isolated German garrison continues to hold out. The headquarters spokesman, describing the situation in this area, said that Brest is now "closely invested on the landward side."

Pays Tribute To Labor At Labor Outing

The approaching liberation of Europe from Nazi enslavement is a tribute to the magnificent war-time record of American labor, Congressman Francis J. Myers, Democratic Candidate for the U. S. Senate, stated in an address before members of the United Automobile Workers, Local 130, CIO.

Speaking to the group at a Union outing in Feasterville, Congressman Myers recalled the late General McNair's tribute to labor and said that without the American-made equipment in use on all of the Allied fronts of the world the idea of a United Nations victory would have been a myth comparable to the Nazi conception of a super-race.

URGES NECESSITY OF HEALTH CERTIFICATES

Claim Some Doylestown Restaurant Workers Not Examined

HAVE NEW PRESIDENT

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 26—Doylestown board of health has issued notice that prosecution will occur if employees, proprietors and members of their families who work in hotels, restaurants, dining cars and other public eating and drinking places here, do not comply immediately with the health certificate requirement.

Health Officer Carl Myers reports that it is his belief that a number of employers hire help without first demanding that they be given physical examinations by a registered doctor of medicine, with resultant issuance of health certificates.

"The law requires that the certificate shall be filed with Health Officer Carl Myers five days from the date of medical examination. The certificate is valid for a period of six months, and may be revoked at any time prior thereto if the condition of such person warrants it."

Dr. Robert L. Walter, who was elected president of the board of health this week to fill the vacancy left by the death of Dr. John J. Sweeney, pointed out that the medical examination of food and drink handlers must show that the person is free from trachoma, active tuberculosis of the lungs, open skin tuberculosis, syphilis, gonorrhea, open cancer and barber's itch, in order to get a certificate.

Following the election of Dr. Walter as the new president of the Board, Carl Myers was reappointed health officer and A. Russell Thomas, secretary. The board named Dr. Walter medical examiner of milk-handlers for Doylestown borough.

TAXATION AND FINANCE

PART FOUR:

EXPENSIVE BUBBLES

(Doylestown Intelligencer, August 28th)

The most dangerous will-o'-the-wisp which has ever lured governments into swamps from which they could not extricate themselves is inflation.

This seductive policy has bankrupted more nations and impoverished more peoples than any other fallacy in history.

It always looks so simple! Suppose a nation, with an aggregate value of ten billions and a normal annual earning of one billion, goes five billions in debt.

This looks like an almost impossible financial condition. The debt is five times annual earnings; it is half the total value of the nation itself. Interest would be nearly a third of a billion; provision for retirement in twenty years would be a quarter of a billion. In other words, carrying and funding charges alone would be more than half of the total national earnings, with no provision either for other governmental expenses or for the needs of the taxpayers to keep some of their income for their own support.

Repudiation of the debt of course is bound to be considered under such circumstances. Morally and economically that is a drastic, almost a fatal, step.

The remaining alternative to belt-tightening determination to repay the debts is bound to be attempts at "controlled inflation"—inflation always is "controlled inflation" in its earlier stages.

The picture as it presents itself, and which makes inflation seem always so attractive, is that the debts would remain stationary while the assets would be revised upward.

Suppose currency, the yardstick, be cut; that the dollar be revalued to ten cents. The face of the debt would of course remain the same, but the face value of the national assets and national income would appear to be multiplied.

According to its advocates, tenfold inflation would present the following revised picture of our hypothetical nation's finances: National resources, one hundred billion; annual income, ten billion; debt, five billion. The debt would be only a twentieth, not half, of the national assets; it would equal one year's income, not five; its funding would consume, not half the annual income, but only a twentieth.

No wonder so many nations have tried inflation, no wonder its exponents have been constantly on the job in the United States.

But this attractive picture is an illusion from the start. Nothing of the sort has happened.

Calling a dollar a dime didn't increase the intrinsic value of property one cent. Neither does it increase earnings.

THREE GOVERNORS TO BROADCAST SPEECHES

Opening Guns of Republican Campaign to Boom Tomorrow Night

HAVE NEW TECHNIQUE

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—Opening guns of the Republican Presidential Campaign boom on both coasts and in the midwest tomorrow night when three of the Nation's 26 Republican governors go on the air for a cross-country presentation of issues to be crystallized later by Governor Thomas E. Dewey.

The trio of openers—Earl Warren, California; Dwight H. Green, Illinois; and Raymond E. Baldwin, Connecticut—is the first of nine governors to participate in a radio series that will prelude campaign speaking by the Republican candidates for president and vice-president.

Announcing this completely new technique of presidential campaigning, Herbert Brownell, Jr., Republican National Chairman, emphasized today the coast-to-coast representation of governors and termed it "symbolic of the nation-wide unity of Republicans behind Dewey and Bricker."

"This series of speeches will be an impressive example of Republican teamwork," Brownell said. "In itself it will be a promise of similar teamwork in national government under Republican administration, contrasting sharply with New Deal bickering and dissension that has been so costly to the American people."

Speeches by the nine Governors will set the stage for campaigning by the national ticket. Other Republican governors will join later with other party leaders in speaking for Dewey and Bricker.

Governor Dewey speaks in Philadelphia, September 7th, and in Louisville, Ky., September 8th. Governor John W. Bricker opens his campaign at French Lick, Ind., on September 9th.

The Tuesday night broadcast by the governors on the Blue Network, 10.15 p. m., e. w. t., will be opened

FIRE RAZES BUILDING ON PENN STREET

Large Crowd Attracted To Scene As Flames Light Sky

AGED MAN AIDED OUT

An old dilapidated building was razed by fire Saturday evening and the flames which lighted the area embraced by Penn. Franklin, Wood and Cedar streets, attracted a large crowd of spectators.

The building, located on the east side of Penn street, between Cedar and Wood streets, was used as a garage and a store house. It had been used at various times for stable, carpenter shop and tin-smith's shop. It was owned by Mrs. Diana Pagione and Saverio Alta.

The flames apparently starting spontaneously quickly enveloped the entire structure and leaped high into the air. It was a thickly congested area and numerous houses were within close proximity.

Fire Chief Clifford Hagerman was shopping in the store of Saverio Alta, directly across the street, and his and others' attention was attracted as the flames burst out lighting the neighborhood. Chief Hagerman telephoned to fire headquarters and then alarms were sent in by others from Boxes 113 and 18. This brought nearly all available fire apparatus to the scene.

Anthony Alta running from his father's store succeeded in getting a motor truck out of the burning building and Peter Wilno, 85, who

BENSALEM SCHOOLS WILL OPEN ON SEPT. 6TH; NAME FACULTY

School Buses to Operate on Same Routes and Schedules As Last Year

ASSIGN THE SCHOLARS

School Rooms Thoroughly Cleaned and Renovated For New Term

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Aug. 28—The public schools in Bensalem Township will open for a full day on Wednesday, September 6th, at 8:50 a. m. School buses will operate on the same routes and schedule effective at the close of last term. Minor adjustments will be effected during the opening weeks of school.

The Eddington building will house pupils in grades one to four only. Fifth and sixth grade pupils will be transported to the Andalusia building. By the erection of a new fire escape, the second floor room in the Andalusia building will be available to relieve the crowded condition in the Eddington and Andalusia upper grades.

In the Cornwells building the enrollment is expected to reach 48 in the first grade, and 47 in the second grade. Since the building is too crowded to allow more than two rooms for these two grades, a third teacher has been employed to divide her time between these two grades as an auxiliary teacher, so that each child may receive more attention.

The slightly lower enrollment in the senior high school grades is neutralized by a swollen junior high school enrollment. It is necessary to schedule three sections, each in grades VII, VIII, and IX. No new tuition pupils are admitted to the junior-senior high school because housing facilities are crowded with resident pupils.

The school census indicates first grade enrollments of 25 at Eddington and 33 at Trevose to increase growing congestion in those buildings also. The local board of education is considering ways of housing this expanding pupil population during the years just ahead.

All of the school rooms have been cleaned thoroughly. The interior of the Eddington building has been painted, and the ground floor rooms of the high school building have new mastic tile flooring. Other parts of the several buildings have been renovated and painted.

Last year's staff members who resigned include: Miss Helen Williamson, the Rev. George Lurwick, Miss Jane Kohler, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Mack. Miss Kohler is transferring to Doylestown high school and Mr. Mack has been elected principal of Springfield Township schools, in upper Bucks County.

The 1944-45 staff is as follows: Andalusia: 1 and 2, Mrs. Lena Minka; 3 and 4, Mrs. Virginia Morris; 5, Mrs. Ann McNeill; 6, Mrs. Meta Miller; 7, Mrs. Hazel Rever; 8, Mrs. Margaret A. Dittmar; 9, Mrs. Anna Johnson; 10, Mrs. Helen Goe; 11, Mrs. Virginia Neely.

Germans Admit Defensive Fighting in France

London—Today's German communique was mainly an admission of defensive fighting in France, with Allied progress allegedly restricted to "small gains." Southeast of Paris, the High Command conceded, the Germans were pushed back toward the lower Marne in violent fighting. Northeast of the French capital, the Allied advance was halted, the statement asserted.

The Allied bridgehead east of Elbeuf, the communique added, was narrowed down by a Nazi counter-attack. North of Nantes the Allies tried to extend their bridgehead, the Germans said, but made only small gains. "Numerous German strongpoints," in Paris continue to "offer dogged resistance," according to the German High Command.

Allied Air Force Destroys Rhone Bridges

Rome—The Mediterranean Allied Air Force offensive, directed at pinning down scattered Nazi garrisons in Europe's underbelly and preventing withdrawals and consolidations, was credited today with its first big success in southern France where it destroyed the strategic Rhone bridges and bottled up the Germans.

Allied heavy bombers yesterday also smothered Ratonneau Island—where heavy manned big coastal batteries are contesting the French drive into the sea—once area—with high explosives. Ratonneau Island is west of liberated Marseille.

Twenty-Six Killed in Plane Crash

Prestwick, Scotland—Twenty-six persons were killed today when a plane, identified by one London newspaper as a Sky Master mail craft from the United States, crashed at Prestwick, Ayr. No official statement regarding the crash was forthcoming immediately.

CHURCHILL SUBMITS

Those mythical war workers who are in the habit of running ten paces from their lathes toward the open door every time a fellow worker tells them of an announcement by an Allied leader forecasting victory over Germany sooner than was thought—those mythical war workers are raising the very dickens with Prime Minister Churchill's tendency to speak out loud and bold and with exceptional clarity. And the world's literature is the loser.

It is well known by now that every time an Allied leader raises his voice in optimism over the accomplishments of Allied arms and the future prospects of the war, there come forth from Washington great lamentations bewailing the exodus of thousands and thousands of Americans from vital war plants. Not long ago, Prime Minister Churchill said that the war might end "sooner than we have a right to expect."

If some federal officials are to be believed, this is all that a lot of highly volatile war workers needed in order to disappear from the assembly lines. It was not long before such officials began to berate Allied leaders for making speeches too full of optimism to permit full attendance at war plants.

Well, Prime Minister Churchill has learned his lesson, and even those who are disappointed when he descends to double-talk in expressing sanguine sentiments can see why he does it. A delayed dispatch from Italy says that when he addressed a brigade of Canadian tankmen, he said:

"I cannot predict an early end to the war, but I could not guarantee against it ending sooner than we have allowed ourselves to hope."

That should satisfy manpower officials. It proves once more that Sherman was right. War is hell, even for a prime minister who once in a while has a justifiably natural urge to give a little good news to his suffering people and to do it frankly and clearly. It's those volatile war workers.

FOOD IN PARIS

A flood of stories about food and its prices under Nazi rule is pouring out of Paris. Often eggs cost 30 cents each, with butter $8 a pound, meat $4 a pound and ordinary table wine $2.40 a bottle. Cigarettes climbed to $3.60 a package. Black market operators obtained $1.40 for a loaf of black bread.

Eating in restaurants became an expensive luxury. It was possible to get a meal for a dollar, but it consisted chiefly of warm water, carrots, coffee and bread. For $6 to $10 a meal was obtainable including heavy soup, meat, vegetables, cheese, fruit and a half bottle of wine. This meal served in black market cafes was ordered mostly by Germans and well-fancied French collaborators.

Reward of 10 francs for Hitler's head has been posted in France. Evidently the price has been reduced for a closing-out sale.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Aug. 23, 1883. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

This year the borough of Bristol will spend about $3,000 in the improvement of her streets, and has something to show for it. The Legislature spends that sum every day and has nothing to exhibit for the expenditure.

One of the new tracks from Otter bridge to the railroad station was connected with the main line last Friday morning. The other one will probably be attached tomorrow morning.

A few minutes past seven o'clock last evening a fire broke out in a stable on the property belonging to Albans Waters, corner of Cedar and Franklin streets. The building was occupied by Peter Gorman, a vendor of coal oil, who went to the building to draw headlight, when the candle light ignited with it, and in a few minutes the entire building was a sheet of flames. The loss is about $500, including a horse worth about $200. The saving of the adjoining properties is due to the active work of the Hook & Ladder Company, assisted by a number of citizens who worked with a will in dashing water on the surrounding buildings. The steam engine arrived upon the ground rather late, owing to the impossibility of obtaining horses to pull it. Gorman, the tenant, was quite badly burned trying to rescue his property.

A colored lad of about 10 years of age, named James Adams, and son of the teamster for Lewis Jones' hosiery mill, was struck by a fast train at the Walnut street crossing, last Thursday afternoon and instantly killed.

to act with force and sense but it not only delays action, at heavy cost, but when it does act, there invariably emerges a compromise, full of concessions to special groups and never wholly devoid of political favor.

NOW THAT the Presidential campaign is becoming more active, these things become more true. Congress backs and fills, equivocates and evades on all matters pertaining to post-war economic stability—reconversion, taxation, demobilization, unemployment, con-

yielded and that eventually, in most instances, they had their way. Except for their sturdy fearlessness the war could not have been won. And the sort of opposition they encountered was met by practically every real man brought in here from the outside to do a real job. Mr. Jeffers, who did his rubber job despite the obstacles thrown in his way, was an example.

BUT IT isn't the job of the army or navy to make post-war economic plans. That is the job of the President and the Congress and they both have fallen down on the job very badly. There are no concrete plans worthy of the name. The legislation passed—and about to be passed—is feeble, tinged with demagoguery and heavily weighted by undue consideration for the special groups. Both Congress and the Executive are timid. It is politically too dangerous to do anything genuine before the election. Of course, it is impossible to expect Congress in an election year—or for that matter in any year—to cast aside politics and how to the line, without leadership. The only place from which leadership could come is from the White House. None—literally none—comes from the White House on these matters.

THE MORE this record is considered the more thankful one is that there are in the army and navy a fine group of hard-hitting, determined men who knew what they wanted and went after it. And they got it, too, despite the fact that at one time or another they had to fight the Council of National Defense, the SPAB, the WPB, the OPM and other executive agencies, to say nothing of the politicians both in Congress and close to the White House. It is a very great tribute to these men that they were not afraid to fight; that they never winter to rest—his aides have found the greatest difficulty in getting him to make decisions on important domestic issues, or even to sign the more or less routine but essential orders without which no move could be made. It still is. These things do not interest him. He dislikes having to worry about them. Military strategy, international affairs and fourth-term politics absorb all his energies. He has neither time nor taste for anything else. The result is an unhappy situation and a rather menacing prospect. It fully bears out the early forecast that the fourth-term candidacy is distinctly against the national interests—both as to the war and as to the dangerous period after the war. It protrudes into everything. It is never forgotten by either side. It, literally, paralyzes all strength of administration.

Jellied Tongue, New, Tasty Dish

A whole tongue in a gelatin mold makes an impressive meat dish which is easily prepared, says Jessie Alice Cline, home economist. A clear mold of this tasty meat combines well with many other foods.

Jellied Tongue

1 tongue, beef or veal
Water
1 large onion

1 tablespoon whole cloves
2 bay leaves
2 tablespoons gelatin
Wash tongue and cover with water. If it is fresh tongue, add 2 teaspoons salt. Add onion, cloves and bay leaves. Cover and simmer until tender, allowing one hour to the pound. Remove the tongue from its hot cooking water and plunge it into cold water. This will make the skin easier to remove. Drain off the cold water, split the skin and peel it off. Place tongue in mold. Strain the cooking liquid and dissolve gelatin in it. Bring to boiling point and pour over tongue. Allow to cool. This makes an attractive dish to slice at the table. A four-pound tongue will serve 12.

ings; actually, it has a contrary effect, for inflationary trends always curtail commerce and industry.

What has happened is that the national debt under the new program is to be repaid in dimes for the dollars which were loaned.

What the hypothetical nation has done is to repudiate ninety per cent of its national debt. Its true picture under ten-fold inflation is: national assets, ten billions; national income, something less than a billion; national debt, half a billion.

Who has suffered? Those who in good faith purchased the government's securities or by other means advanced their money. They stand to get back ten cents on the dollar. They have contributed four and a half billion dollars to the government in the form of hidden and indirect but extremely expensive taxes.

Germany realized this true version of inflation when, after the war, she sold her securities as widely as possible in foreign nations, and then repudiated them by means of currency inflation.

German holders of the securities or currency suffered along with foreign purchasers; and owners of other property, including bank-savings and business concerns, also paid heavy toll to the devaluation.

From the point of view of the German people, the fact that their government also fleeced foreign investors by the sale of securities and currency which it never intended to redeem was but small consolation.

Their government taxed them, in effect, all they had; for they emerged from inflation bankrupt and disorganized, virtually all property in the hands of the government under States-socialism. Hitler, hysteria and war followed.

The point at which the German people missed the boat was not with the elevation of Hitler, nor following him into war, but much earlier; when they allowed their government to experiment with inflation.

Had the German people had the will, as they unmistakably had the power, to force their government into sound financial policies, subsequent world history would have been far different.

Their troubles began when, so to speak, they threw up their hands and allowed their government to do as it pleased.

SIX RUNS IN LAST INNING WINS FOR VOLTZ-TEXACO IX

Gasoleers Win 2nd Game of Series for League Honors

BADENHAUSEN LOSES

Voltz Men Were Trailing 4 to 2 Going Into The Last Canto

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Aug. 28.—Six runs in the final inning gave the Voltz-Texaco team its second straight triumph over Badenhausen in the playoff series to decide the championship of the Bristol Suburban League.

The Voltz-men were trailing, 4-2, going into the last canto but before the frame was over they pushed over six runs and changed what appeared to be an ultimate defeat to an 8-4 victory. Miscues paved the way for the Badies' loss.

Howard Black batted for Bill Dougherty to start the uprising and he reached base when Leo Hibbs booted his grounder. Cooney could not get the ball over the plate for McDevitt and he walked. Grimes was sent in to run for Black. Dewsnap bunted and Cooney fumbled the ball to load the bases. Ritter scored two runners with a single to center and Dewsnap scored when Milt Jones who had relieved Cooney unleashed a wild pitch. Rockhill struck out but Leigh walked and stole second. Barney Ludwig drove the fourth and fifth runs over with a double to center. Trapp messed up Smith's grounder and the runner was safe. Sullivan grounded out. Ludwig scoring. Grimes was the third out on his roller to short.

Both starting hurlers, Joe Cooney, and Hal Shackleton failed to last the game. Cooney was charged with the defeat while Joe McDevitt who relieved Shackleton in the fifth was credited with the win. Milt Jones took Cooney's place after the latter loaded the bags in the ninth. Cooney pitched wonderful ball throughout the tilt. He gave up four hits and after Ritter got a hit in the first he pitched runless and hitless ball until Bill Leigh started off the sixth with a triple. His wildness got him into several hot spots but he managed to pull out unscathed.

He gave up a run in the first on a walk to Dewsnap, a stolen base, and Ritter's hit. He allowed the second run when Leigh tripled and scored on an infield out. That was all the Voltz boys could do until the final rally.

All the Badies' markers were made off Shackleton as McDevitt allowed but two hits during his tenure on the hill. McDevitt fanned seven batters but he also had a streak of wildness in issuing five passes. The four hurlers in the game gave up a total of 19 passes.

Aided by walks, the Badenhausen team took a 3-1 lead in the third inning. Hemp was passed. Vandegrift sacrificed. Praul singled off G. Dougherty's shin. Bowman was intentionally passed to load the bases. Hemp scored on a passed ball. Hibbs socked a long triple to left center, scoring Praul and Bowman. Stark also counted but he was declared out for not touching third. Shackhouse fled out.

In the fifth, the Badies counted again. Vandegrift reached base on an error and Praul walked. Bowman fled out. Stark was passed. Hibbs hit to Ritter who tossed to Dougherty for a force-out but the latter dropped the ball and all hands were safe. Vandegrift scoring. McDevitt then struck out both Shackhouse and Cooney. Freeman Bowman, catcher for the Badies, did not have much opportunity to hit during the contest as on four occasions he stepped to the plate with runners on base and was given intentional passes.

The third game of the series will be played next Sunday on the Edgely diamond.

CAUGHT CAT FISH

Robert Scott, of Eddington, Wins 2nd Honors With 10-Inch Bass

An estimated 50 kids were on hand yesterday for the annual children's fishing contest sponsored by the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association at Silver Lake.

Hugh Barton, Swain street, was declared the winner of first prize, an order for five dollars worth of sporting goods at Diamond Sporting Goods, Mill street, with his entry of a half-pound catfish. Barton also landed a second catfish which was smaller. He used beef for bait. Although the weather was perfect and enthusiasm ran high at the beginning of the contest, interest waned as the afternoon hours wore on, with very few catches.

An Eddington youth, Robert Scott, took second place honors with his 10-inch large-mouth bass. He landed the bass on an artificial plug. Third and fourth place honors went to the Nonini brothers, of Beaver Dam Road. Robert Nonini won the third prize with his 5-ounce catfish, and his brother Arthur took fourth prize with a sunfish.

Members of Ollie Hobbs' fish committee expressed disappointment at the results of the contest, both from the number of fish actually caught and also from the number of participants. Last year there were more than 150 participants. Although catches were not very good last year, considerable stocking has taken place in the lake since then, and the committee expected more fish to be entered.

Some saw a ripple on the Delaware... I saw a tidal wave destroying the Axis

YESTERDAY a tanker was launched at Chester. It slid down the ways into the Delaware... a river that will always mean a great deal to Americans... who remember the historic crossing through the ice floes that breathed new life into a cause all but lost.

"The tanker hit the water... as many another has done at the Sun Shipyard. There was the usual splash... gradually subsiding into a widening circle of ripples across the placid waters of the Delaware.

"Some saw only the ripples. But in my imagination those ripples kept moving. The ripples became waves... and the waves kept rolling. They grew larger. Their crest kept rising higher and higher... and they travelled far. They grew to terrifying proportions... and then they broke... just as a tidal wave breaks... crashing on the shores of Germany and Japan... roaring in from the Atlantic and Pacific to engulf the enemy shores.

"Some saw only another ship being launched... another tanker added to the great fleet already built at the Sun Shipyard to carry oil and gasoline to our armed forces overseas. But I thought of American airplanes, American tanks and jeeps, all the mechanized might of our fighting forces... waiting for that oil and gasoline, helpless without it, all powerful with it... and those ripples on the Delaware were transformed into surging surf pounding at Hamburg and Yokohama.

"Today the streamlined luxury trains take the sidetrack while troop trains and the long freights loaded with guns, tanks and munitions have the right of way. Today the luxury liner is only a memory. If she's on the sea at all... three-tiered bunks crowded with soldiers fill every available cubic foot of space. The tanker is the Queen of the Sea today... the ship that carries the oil and gas without which the Army would come to a halt and the Navy would rock at anchor.

"A tanker was launched at Chester today... one more link in that floating pipeline through which the oil flows to speed victory. And hats off to the men and women of Sun Ship... who built that tanker... as they have built hundreds before... and will build hundreds more, to stir ripples on the Delaware to build up the tidal wave that will destroy the Axis."

HISTORIC MEAUX, 20 MILES EAST OF PARIS, OCCUPIED BY THE AMERICAN SOLDIERS; 65,000 PRISONERS TO DATE

Reach Point Where German Army Was Stopped in Drive on Paris in World War I—Believe Allies Have Crossed the Marne River

Supreme Headquarters, AEF—

Aug. 28—History's third battle of the Marne opened today to the thunder of artillery and the rumble of tanks when American doughboys drove headlong across that river and captured the battered city of Meaux which held the eyes of the world in the anxious days of 1914.

It was at Meaux, 28 miles east-northeast of Paris, that the French stemmed the first German juggernaut in September, 1914, and it was near there that the Huns were defeated in the gruelling second battle of the Marne in July, 1918.

Today for the second time in 26 years, American doughboys were in possession of the city and the Germans on the run.

By Charles A. Smith

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

Supreme Headquarters, AEF—

Aug. 28—(INS)—American doughboys have occupied the historic town of Meaux, 20 miles east of Paris on the northern bank of the Marne River, where the Germans were stopped in their drive on the French capital in World War I.

A spokesman at Allied Headquarters announced the liberation of Meaux shortly after the routine communique telling only of general advances all along the front was issued.

The spokesman disclosed that Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr.'s Third Army has taken a total of 65,000 Nazi prisoners and killed 16,000 since it began its sensational operations in France.

There are no definite reports that the Marne itself has yet been crossed, but the spokesman declared that it was entirely possible.

German forces in the Ronsen sector, some 28 miles east of Le Havre, are being steadily compressed and there are indications that Ronsen itself may be outflanked by American forces wheeling northward toward the rocket gun coast.

These forces, it is believed, are engaged in a gigantic outflanking maneuver designed to sever communications between remnants of the German 15th Army and the Nazi homeland.

At the western end of the front, Allied forces have advanced another 1,000 yards toward the great port of Brest, in which the isolated German garrison continues to hold out. The headquarters spokesman, describing the situation in this area, said that Brest is now "closely invested on the landward side."

Only scattered groups of Nazis are being encountered along the Marne, which flows almost due east of Paris along a twisting course.

Pays Tribute To Labor At Labor Outing

The approaching liberation of Europe from Nazi enslavement is a tribute to the magnificent war-time record of American labor, Congressman Francis J. Myers, Democratic Candidate for the U. S. Senate, stated in an address before members of the United Automobile Workers, Local 130, CIO.

Speaking to the group at a Union outing in Feasterville, Congressman Myers recalled the late General McNair's tribute to labor and said that without the American made equipment in use on all of the Allied fronts of the world the idea of a United Nations victory would have been a myth comparable to the Nazi conception of a super-race.

URGES NECESSITY OF HEALTH CERTIFICATES

Claim Some Doylestown Restaurant Workers Not Examined

HAVE NEW PRESIDENT

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 26—Doylestown board of health has issued notice that prosecution will occur if employees, proprietors and members of their families who work in hotels, restaurants, dining cars and other public eating and drinking places here, do not comply immediately with the health certificate requirement.

Health Officer Carl Myers reports that it is his belief that a number of employers hire help without first demanding that they be given physical examinations by a registered doctor of medicine, with resultant issuance of health certificates.

"The law requires that the certificate shall be filed with Health Officer Carl Myers five days from the date of medical examination. The certificate is valid for a period of six months, and may be revoked at any time prior thereto if the condition of such person warrants it."

Dr. Robert L. Walter, who was elected president of the board of health this week to fill the vacancy left by the death of Dr. John J. Sweeney, pointed out that the medical examination of food and drink handlers must show that the person is free from trachoma, active tuberculosis of the lungs, open skin tuberculosis, syphilis, gonorrhea, open cancer and barber's itch, in order to get a certificate.

Following the election of Dr. Walter as the new president of the board, Carl Myers was reappointed health officer and A. Russell Thomas, secretary. The board named Dr. Walter medical examiner of milk-handlers for Doylestown borough.

The board also directed that the name of Stanley Bowers be submitted to Borough Council as a new member of the board to fill the vacancy left by the death of Dr. Sweeney.

TAXATION AND FINANCE

PART FOUR:
EXPENSIVE BUBBLES
(Doylestown Intelligencer, August 28th)

The most dangerous will-o'-the-wisp which has ever lured governments into swamps from which they could not extricate themselves is inflation.

This seductive policy has bankrupted more nations and impoverished more peoples than any other fallacy in history.

It always looks so simple! Suppose a nation, with an aggregate value of ten billions and a normal annual earning of one billion, goes five billions in debt.

This looks like an almost impossible financial condition. The debt is five times annual earnings; it is half the total value of the nation itself. Interest would be nearly a third of a billion; provision for retirement in twenty years would be a quarter of a billion. In other words, carrying and funding charges alone would be more than half of the total national earnings, with no provision either for other governmental expenses or for the needs of the taxpayers to keep some of their income for their own support.

Reputation of the debt of course is bound to be considered under such circumstances. Morally and economically that is a drastic, almost a fatal, step.

The remaining alternative to belt-tightening determination to repay the debts is bound to be attempts at "controlled inflation"—inflation always is "controlled inflation" in its earlier stages.

The picture as it presents itself, and which makes inflation seem always so attractive, is that the debts would remain stationary while the assets would be revised upward.

Suppose currency, the yardstick, be cut; that the dollar be revalued to ten cents. The face of the debt would of course remain the same, but the face value of the national assets and national income would appear to be multiplied.

According to its advocates, tenfold inflation would present the following revised picture of our hypothetical nation's finances: National resources, one hundred billion; annual income, ten billion; debt, five billion. The debt would be only a twentieth, not half, of the national assets; it would equal one year's income, not five; its funding would consume, not half the annual income, but only a twentieth.

No wonder so many nations have tried inflation, no wonder its exponents have been constantly on the job in the United States.

But this attractive picture is an illusion from the start. Nothing of the sort has happened.

Calling a dollar a dime didn't increase the intrinsic value of property one cent. Neither does it increase earnings.

THREE GOVERNORS TO BROADCAST SPEECHES

Opening Guns of Republican Campaign to Boom Tomorrow Night

HAVE NEW TECHNIQUE

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—Opening guns of the Republican Presidential Campaign boom on both coasts as in the midwest tomorrow night when three of the Nation's 26 Republican governors go on the air for a cross-country presentation of issues to be crystallized later by Governor Thomas E. Dewey.

The trio of speakers—Earl Warren, California; Dwight H. Green, Illinois; and Raymond E. Baldwin, Connecticut—is the first of nine governors to participate in a radio series that will prelude campaign speaking by the Republican candidates for president and vice-president.

Announcing this completely new technique of presidential campaigning, Herbert Brownell, Jr., Republican National Chairman, emphasized today the coast-to-coast representation of governors and termed it "symbolic of the nation-wide unity of Republicans behind Dewey and Bricker."

"This series of speeches will be an impressive example of Republican teamwork," Brownell said. "In itself it will be a promise of similar teamwork in national government under Republican administration, contrasting sharply with New Deal bickering and dissension that has been so costly to the American people."

Speeches by the nine Governors will set the stage for campaigning by the national ticket. Other Republican governors will join later with other party leaders in speaking for Dewey and Bricker.

Governor Dewey speaks in Philadelphia, September 7th, and in Louisville, Ky., September 8th. Governor John W. Bricker opens his campaign at French Lick, Ind., on September 9th.

The Tuesday night broadcast by the governors on the Blue Network, 10:15 p. m., e. w. t., will be opened by Governor Dewey.

FIRE RAZES BUILDING ON PENN STREET

Large Crowd Attracted To Scene As Flames Light Sky

AGED MAN AIDED OUT

An old dilapidated building was razed by fire Saturday evening and the flames which lighted the area embraced by Penn, Franklin, Wood and Cedar streets, attracted a large crowd of spectators.

The building, located on the east side of Penn street, between Cedar and Wood streets, was used as garages and a store house. It had been used at various times for stable, carpenter shop and tin-smith's shop. It was owned by Mrs. Diana Paxione and Saverio Alta.

The flames apparently starting spontaneously quickly enveloped the entire structure and leaped high into the air. It was a thickly congested area and numerous houses were within close proximity.

Fire Chief Clifford Hagerman was shopping in the store of Saverio Alta, directly across the street, and as his and others' attention was attracted as the flames burst out lighting the neighborhood, Chief Hagerman telephoned to fire headquarters and then alarms were sent in by others from Boxes 113 and 18. This brought nearly all available fire apparatus to the scene.

Anthony Alta running from his father's store succeeded in getting a motor truck out of the burning building and Peter Wilno, 85, who

BENSALEM SCHOOLS WILL OPEN ON SEPT. 6TH; NAME FACULTY

School Buses to Operate on Same Routes and Schedules As Last Year

School Rooms Thoroughly Cleaned and Renovated For New Term

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Aug. 28—The public schools in Bensalem Township will open for a full day on Wednesday, September 6th, at 8:50 a. m. School buses will operate on the same routes and schedules effective at the close of last term. Minor adjustments will be effected during the opening week of school.

The Eddington building will house pupils in grades one to four only. Fifth and sixth grade pupils will be transported to the Andalusia building. By the erection of a new fire escape, the second floor room in the Andalusia building will be available to relieve the crowded condition in the Eddington and Andalusia upper grades.

In the Cornwells building, the enrollment is expected to reach 45 in the first grade, and 47 in the second grade. Since the building is too crowded to allow more than two rooms for these two grades, a third teacher has been employed to divide her time between these two grades as an auxiliary teacher, so that each child may receive more attention.

The slightly lower enrollment in the senior high school grades is neutralized by a swollen junior high school enrollment. It is necessary to schedule three sections, each in grades VII, VIII, and IX. No new tuition pupils are admitted to the junior-senior high school because housing facilities are crowded with resident pupils.

The school census indicates first grade enrollments of 25 at Eddington and 33 at Trevose to increase growing congestion in those buildings also. The local board of education is considering ways of housing this expanding pupil population during the years just ahead.

All of the school rooms have been cleaned thoroughly. The interior of the Eddington building has been painted, and the ground floor rooms of the high school building have new mastic tile flooring. Other parts of the several buildings have been renovated and painted.

Last year's staff members who resigned included: Miss Helen Williamson, the Rev. George Lawrick, Miss Jane Kohler, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Kahler. Miss Kohler is transferring to Doylestown high school, and Mr. Kahler has been elected principal of Springfield Township schools, in upper Bucks County.

The 1944-45 staff is as follows: Andalusia: 1 and 2. Mrs. Lena Minka; 2 and 3. Miss Virginia Morris; 4. Mrs. Ann Meisell; 5. Mrs. Meta Miller; 5. Mrs. Hazel Reyer.

Eddington: 1 and 2. Miss Frances Smith; 3 and 4. Miss Jane Bechtel. Trevose: 1. Mrs. Margaret A. Dittmar; 2. Miss Anna Johnson; 3 and 4. Miss Helen Gee; 5 and 6. Miss Virginia Neely.

CHURCHILL SUBMITS

Those mythical war workers who are in the habit of running ten paces from their lathes toward the open door every time a fellow worker tells them of an announcement by an Allied leader forecasting victory over Germany sooner than was thought—those mythical war workers are raising the very dickens with Prime Minister Churchill's tendency to speak out loud and bold and with exceptional clarity. And the world's literature is the loser.

It is well known by now that every time an Allied leader raises his voice in optimism over the accomplishments of Allied arms and the future prospects of the war, there come forth from Washington great lamentations bemoaning the exodus of thousands and thousands of Americans from vital war plants. Not long ago, Prime Minister Churchill said that the war might end "sooner than we have a right to expect."

If some federal officials are to be believed, this is all that a lot of highly volatile war workers needed in order to disappear from the assembly lines. It was not long before such officials began to berate Allied leaders for making speeches too full of optimism to permit full attendance at war plants.

Well, Prime Minister Churchill has learned his lesson, and even those who are disappointed when he descends to double-talk in expressing sanguine sentiments can see why he does it. A delayed dispatch from Italy says that when he addressed a brigade of Canadian tankmen, he said:

"I cannot predict an early end to the war, but I could not guarantee against it ending sooner than we have allowed ourselves to hope."

That should satisfy manpower officials. It proves once more that Sherman was right. War is hell, even for a prime minister who once in a while has a justifiably natural urge to give a little good news to his suffering people and to do it frankly and clearly.

It's those volatile war workers.

FOOD IN PARIS

A flood of stories about food and its prices under Nazi rule is pouring out of Paris. Often eggs cost 30 cents each, with butter $8 a pound, meat $4 a pound and ordinary table wine $2.40 a bottle. Cigarettes climbed to $3.60 a package. Black market operators obtained $1.40 for a loaf of black bread.

Eating in restaurants became an expensive luxury. It was possible to get a meal for a dollar, but it consisted chiefly of warm water, carrots, coffee and bread. For $6 to $10 a meal was obtainable including heavy soup, meat, vegetables, cheese, fruit and a half bottle of wine. This meal served in black market cafes was ordered mostly by Germans and well-financed French collaborationists.

Reward of 10 francs for Hitler's head has been posted in France. Evidently the price has been reduced for a closing-out sale.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Aug. 23, 1883. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

An enormous harvest of turnip and cabbage seeds have been produced in PePens Manor this year. The season has been favorable and the acreage has been greater than usual. Car loads of the seed have been shipped to the west.

Telephonic connection, by a temporary wire, has been made between Philadelphia and the rubberoid works and Grundy Bros. & Campion's worsted mill.

It is expected when the borough streets are put in first class condition the fines for fast driving will be more numerous.

(Following items culled from The Bucks County Gazette, issue of August 30, 1883.)

This year the borough of Bristol will spend about $3,000 in the improvement of her streets, and has something to show for it. The Legislature spends that sum every day and has nothing to exhibit for the expenditure.

One of the new tracks from Otter bridge to the railroad station was connected with the main line last Friday morning. The other one will probably be attached tomorrow morning.

Prof. J. V. Ommeren of Quakertown, is a prominent candidate for county superintendent of public schools.

A salmon weighing 4½ pounds is reported to have been taken in the Delaware near Riegelsville, about 10 days ago. Several large black bass have also been taken by anglers in the same vicinity.

At St. Mark's Church last Sunday evening an unexpected musical treat was enjoyed by those fortunate enough to be present. . . . The beauties of the solemn benediction service were feelingly expressed by the rare and exquisite voice of Mrs. Alice Swain Hunter, of Washington, D. C. . . .

(Following items culled from Sept. 6, 1883.)

Bucks County Gazette, issue of

A few minutes past seven o'clock last evening a fire broke out in a stable on the property belonging to Albans Waters, corner of Cedar and Franklin streets. The building was occupied by Peter Gorman, a vendor of coal oil, who went to the building to draw headlight, when the candle light ignited with it, and in a few minutes the entire building was a sheet of flames. The loss is about $500, including a horse worth about $200. The saving of the adjoining properties is due to the active work of the Hook & Ladder Company, assisted by a number of citizens who worked with a will in dashing water on the surrounding buildings. The steam engine arrived upon the ground rather late, owing to the impossibility of obtaining horses to pull it. Gorman, the tenant, was quite badly burned trying to rescue his property.

A tonsorial artist from Philadelphia came here tomorrow to "bang" the Bristol girls.

George Dykes has purchased Edward Tice's property on Dorance street.

At a recent meeting of the directors of the People's National Bank of Langhorne, Mr. Gove Mitchell was elected cashier.

A colored lad of about 10 years of age, named James Adams, and son of the teamster for Lewis Jones' hosiery mill, was struck by a fast train at the Walnut street crossing, last Thursday afternoon and instantly killed.

A petition is to be presented to council at their next meeting asking that the street committee be instructed to continue their improvements on Radcliffe, Otter and Bath streets.

Levi J. Shull has bought the residence of T. B. Bailey, on Washington street, for $2200. Mr. Bailey has removed to Washington, D. C.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

to act with force and sense but it not only delays action, at heavy cost, but when it does act, there invariably emerges a compromise, full of concessions to special groups and never wholly devoid of political favor.

NOW THAT the Presidential campaign is becoming more active, these things become more true. Congress backs and fills, equivocates and evades on all matters pertaining to post-war economic stabilization, conversion, taxation, demobilization, unemployment, con-

yielded and that eventually, in most instances, they had their way. Except for their sturdy fearlessness the war could not have been won. And the sort of opposition they encountered was met by practically every real man brought in here from the outside to do a real job. Mr. Jefferson, who did his rubber job despite the obstacles thrown in his way, was an example.

BUT IT isn't the job of the army or navy to make post-war economic plans. That is the job of the President and the Congress and they both have fallen down on the job very badly. There are no concrete plans worthy of the name. The legislation passed—and about to be passed—is feeble, tinged with demagoguery and heavily weighted by undue consideration for the special groups. Both Congress and the Executive are timid. It is politically too dangerous to do anything genuine before the election. Of course, it is impossible to expect Congress in an election year—or for that matter in any year—to cast aside politics and how to the line, without leadership. The only place from which leadership could come is from the White House. None—literally none—comes from the White House on these matters.

THE PRESIDENT is far too busy being Commander in Chief to bother with them. No secret is made of the fact that for many months—long before he went to Hobcaw last lyzes all strength of administration.

Jellied Tongue, New, Tasty Dish

A whole tongue in a gelatin mold makes an impressive meat dish which is easily prepared, says Jessie Alice Cline, home economist. A clear mold of this tasty meat combines well with many other foods.

Jellied Tongue
1 tongue, beef or veal
Water
1 large onion

1 tablespoon whole cloves
2 bay leaves
2 tablespoons gelatin
Wash tongue and cover with water. If it is fresh tongue, add 2 teaspoons salt. Add onion, cloves and bay leaves. Cover and simmer until tender, allowing one hour to the pound. Remove the tongue from its hot cooking water and plunge it into cold water. This will make the skin easier to remove. Drain off the cold water, split the skin and peel it off. Place tongue in mold. Strain the cooking liquid and dissolve gelatin in it. Bring to boiling point and pour over tongue. Allow to cool. This makes an attractive dish to serve at the table. A four-pound tongue will serve 12.

ings; actually, it has a contrary effect, for inflationary trends always curtail commerce and industry.

What has happened is that the national debt under the new program is to be repaid in dimes for the dollars which were loaned.

What the hypothetical nation has done is to repudiate ninety per cent of its national debt. Its true picture under ten-fold inflation is: national assets, ten billions; national income, something less than a billion; national debt, half a billion.

Who has suffered? Those who in good faith purchased the government's securities or by other means advanced their money. They stand to get back ten cents on the dollar. They have contributed four and a half billion dollars to the government in the form of hidden and indirect but extremely expensive taxes.

Germany realized this true version of inflation when, after the war, she sold her securities as widely as possible in foreign nations, and then repudiated them by means of currency inflation.

German holders of the securities or currency suffered along with foreign purchasers; and owners of other property, including bank-savings and business concerns, also paid heavy toll to the devaluation.

From the point of view of the German people, the fact that their government also fleeced foreign investors by the sale of securities and currency which it never intended to redeem was but small consolation.

Their government taxed them, in effect, all they had; for they emerged from inflation bankrupt and disorganized, virtually all property in the hands of the government under States-socialism. Hitler, hysteria and war followed.

The point at which the German people missed the boat was not with the elevation of Hitler, nor following him into war, but much earlier; when they allowed their government to experiment with inflation.

Had the German people had the will, as they unmistakably had the power, to force their government into sound financial policies, subsequent world history would have been far different.

Their troubles began when, so to speak, they threw up their hands and allowed their government to do as it pleased.

EVERYBODY PITCHES IN

"You help me, and I'll help you" . . . it's an old farm custom for the men to pool their efforts and equipment when there's a big job to be done. And that's one of the reasons why the farmers are beating wartime obstacles and meeting the great needs for foods.

Next winter, for instance, you'll enjoy the benefits of the friendly spirit of co-operation between Supplee farmers and their neighbors that made it possible to harvest the crops, and store the feeds. For these will help keep the flow of milk at the highest possible level during the lower production months ahead.

Right now, there's sufficient fresh, pure Supplee Milk to meet all your real needs . . . you can get it from your Supplee milk man or woman, or from your neighborhood store. But we do ask you to be conservative in your use of cream and milk by-products. For these have again been restricted by government order so that they may be preserved in more permanent forms, such as butter and cheese, and shipped overseas to our armies and allies who require them now in ever-increasing quantities.

Now, as always, Supplee is working with the farmers to assure you your full share of the available supplies in milk that's as fine, and sweet, as it's possible to produce . . . and to bring you the milk that's extra nourishing—Supplee Sealtest Homogenized Vitamin D Milk with the cream mixed throughout.

SIX RUNS IN LAST INNING WINS FOR VOLTZ-TEXACO IX

Gasoleers Win 2nd Game of Series for League Honors

BADENHAUSEN LOSES

Voltz Men Were Trailing 4 to 2 Going Into The Last Canto

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Aug. 28.—Six runs in the final inning gave the Voltz-Texaco team its second straight triumph over Badenhausen in the playoff series to decide the championship of the Bristol Suburban League.

The Voltz-men were trailing, 4-2, going into the last canto but before the frame was over they pushed over six runs and changed what appeared to be an ultimate defeat to an 8-4 victory. Miscues paved the way for the Badies' loss.

Howard Black batted for Bill Dougherty to start the uprising and he reached base when Leo Hibbs booted his grounder. Cooney could not get the ball over the plate for McDevitt and he walked. Grimes was sent in to run for Black. Dewsnap bunted and Cooney fumbled the ball to load the bases. Ritter scored two runners with a single to center and Dewsnap scored when Milt Jones who had relieved Cooney unleashed a wild pitch. Rockhill struck out but Leigh walked and stole second. Barney Ludwig drove the fourth and fifth runs over with a double to center. Trapp messed up Smith's grounder and the runner was safe. Sullivan grounded out. Ludwig scoring. Grimes was the third out on his roller to short.

Both starting hurler, Joe Cooney, and Hal Shackleton failed to last the game. Cooney was charged with the defeat while Joe McDevitt who relieved Shackleton in the fifth was credited with the win. Milt Jones took Cooney's place after the latter loaded the bases in the ninth.

Cooney pitched wonderful ball throughout the tilt. He gave up four hits and after Ritter got a hit in the first he pitched runless and hitless ball until Bill Leigh started off the sixth with a triple. His wildness got him into several hot spots but he managed to pull out unscathed.

He gave up a run in the first on a walk to Dewsnap, a stolen base, and Ritter's hit. He allowed the second run when Leigh tripled and scored on an infield out. That was all the Voltz boys could do until the final rally.

All the Badies' markers were made off Shackleton as McDevitt allowed but two hits during his tenure on the hill. McDevitt fanned seven batters but he also had a streak of wildness in issuing five passes. The four hurlers in the game gave up a total of 19 passes. Aided by walks, the Badenhausen team took a 3-1 lead in the third inning. Hemp was passed. Vandegrift sacrificed. Praul singled off G. Dougherty's shin. Bowman was intentionally passed to load the bases. Hemp scored on a passed ball. Hibbs socked a long triple to left center, scoring Praul and Bowman. Stark also counted but he was declared out for not touching third. Shackhouse fled out.

In the fifth, the Badies counted again. Vandegrift reached base on an error and Praul walked. Bowman fled out. Stark was passed. Hibbs hit to Ritter who tossed to Dougherty for a force-out but the latter dropped the ball and all hands were safe. Vandegrift scoring. McDevitt then struck out both Shackhouse and Cooney. Freeman Bowman, catcher for the Badies, did not have much opportunity to hit during the contest as on four occasions he stepped to the plate with runners on base and was given intentional passes.

The third game of the series will be played next Sunday on the Edgely diamond.

HUGH BARTON WINS FISHING CONTEST AT SILVER LAKE

Estimate 50 Children Took Part in The Contest Here

CAUGHT CAT FISH

Robert Scott, of Eddington, Wins 2nd Honors With 10-Inch Bass

An estimated 50 kids were on hand yesterday for the annual children's fishing contest sponsored by the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association at Silver Lake.

Hugh Barton, Swain street, was declared the winner of first prize, an order for five dollars worth of sporting goods at Diamond Sporting Goods, Mill street, with his entry of a half-pound catfish. Barton also landed a second catfish which was smaller. He used beef for bait.

Although the weather was perfect and enthusiasm ran high at the beginning of the contest, interest waned as the afternoon hours wore on, with very few catches.

An Eddington youth, Robert Scott, took second place honors with his 10-inch large-mouth bass. He landed the bass on an artificial plug. Third and fourth place honors went to the Nonini brothers, of Beaver Dam Road. Robert Nonini won the third prize with his 5-ounce catfish, and his brother Arthur took fourth prize with a sunfish.

Members of Ollie Hobbs' fish committee expressed disappointment at the results of the contest, both from the number of fish actually caught and also from the number of participants. Last year there were more than 150 participants. Although catches were not very good last year, considerable stocking has taken place in the lake since then, and the committee expected more fish to be entered.

Firemen arriving at the scene pressed two pumps into service and soon numerous strong streams of water were drowning out the flames.

Because of the age of the building the loss will not reach a very high figure.

Some saw a ripple on the Delaware...

I saw a tidal wave destroying the Axis

"YESTERDAY a tanker was launched at Chester. It slid down the ways into the Delaware... a river that will always mean a great deal to Americans... who remember the historic crossing through the ice floes that breathed new life into a cause all but lost.

"The tanker hit the water... as many another has done at the Sun Shipyard. There was the usual splash... gradually subsiding into a widening circle of ripples across the placid waters of the Delaware.

"Some saw only the ripples. But in my imagination those ripples kept moving. The ripples became waves... and the waves kept rolling. They grew larger. Their crest kept rising higher and higher... and they travelled far. They grew to terrifying proportions... and then they broke... just as a tidal wave breaks... crashing on the shores of Germany and Japan... roaring in from the Atlantic and Pacific to engulf the enemy shores.

"Some saw only another ship being launched... another tanker added to the great fleet already built at the Sun Shipyard to carry oil and gasoline to our armed forces overseas. But I thought of American airplanes, American tanks and jeeps, all the mechanized might of our fighting forces... waiting for that oil and gasoline, helpless without it, all powerful with it... and those ripples on the Delaware were transformed into surging surf pounding at Hamburg and Yokohama.

"Today the streamlined luxury trains take the sidetrack while troop trains and the long freights loaded with guns, tanks and munitions have the right of way. Today the luxury liner is only a memory. If she's on the sea at all... three-tiered bunks crowded with soldiers fill every available cubic foot of space. The tanker is the Queen of the Sea today... the ship that carries the oil and gas without which the Army would come to a halt and the Navy would rock at anchor.

"A tanker was launched at Chester today... one more link in that floating pipeline through which the oil flows to speed victory. And hats off to the men and women of Sun Ship... who built that tanker... as they have built hundreds before... and will build hundreds more, to stir ripples on the Delaware to build up the tidal wave that will destroy the Axis."
